Russians Kill 6,000 Germans, Take 100 Towns

Axis Lines Crack On Donets Sector

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 30 (P)—Russia's Southern armies plunging toward the Dnieper river killed 6,000 Germans and captured nearly 100 villages yesterday in gains of four to nine miles. Moscow announced early today, amid strong indications that Axis lines were cracking in the huge Donets basin.

Soviet airmen reported the Germans were blowing up ammunition dumps and stores southwest of Voroshilovgrad in the Donets basin preparatory to retreat. A communiqué also announced that one Russian formation alone had killed 2,000 Germans and was "forging ahead, crushing enemy manpower and equipment," in that area.

Hundreds of Germans were surrendering en masse on the 450-mile front between Bryansk and Voroshilovgrad, Moscow said, as the Red army continued to display an unparalleled summer punch.

A great wheeling movement west and south of Kharkov threatened perhaps 800,000 Germans in the extended Donets basin-Kuban salient southwest of Kharkov.

Nazis Fight Desperately

The Germans were throwing construction battalions and other rear-guard units into desperate fighting to hold their Donets lines. If they are forced to withdraw they face a 200-mile retreat westward to the Dnieper river bend.

Fifty villages fell to the Russians west and south of Kharkov, where gains up to seven and one-half miles were made, the Russians said. Among the towns captured was Lyubotin, a rail junction twenty-five miles due west of Kharkov. Other Russian units that had swung to the northwest, however, were driving the Psel-Vorskla river valleys to envelop Poltava, big Axis base eighty-five miles southwest of Kharkov on the approaches to the Dnieper river bend.

Forty villages were seized below Bryansk, where the Russians said their men beat off eight consecutive counter-attacks and killed 1,000 German troops west of Sevsk. The communiqué spoke of "wearing down the enemy" in that sector.

200 Germans Surrender

South of Sevsk the Russians overran sixteen villages and captured a strongly fortified enemy defense line. Four hundred Germans fell in that one engagement, said the communiqué recorded by the Soviet monitor. In a neighboring sector "a company of Germans (about 200 men) laid down their arms and surrendered."

The offensive likewise rolled ahead on the Donets sector near Voroshilovgrad, and Russian airmen reported the Germans were destroying supplies there to keep them from falling to the Soviets.

The Germans were throwing construction battalions and other rear-guard units into desperate fighting to hold their Donets lines, the Russians said.

Lyubotin is astride the railroad linking the Kursk-Kiev line with the main line from Kharkov to Dnepropetrovsk.

Gasoline Rations Unlikely To Be Increased Sept. 1, Harrison Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (P)—Gasoline rations in the East definitely will not be increased Sept. 1, the government director of motor fuel rationing said today.

The bigger allotment is still hopelessly planned, he added, "but it may take weeks—it may even be months."

He said he could not answer a question whether the prohibition against pleasure driving would be lifted, but by specifying that his ability to reply was a matter of "today" he lent implied support to expectations that the ban would be raised Wednesday.

The information came from Richard C. Harrison, chief of the gasoline rationing section of the Office of Price Administration in a broadcast interview on the Blue network this is official.

Salamaua's Fall To Allies near, MacArthur Says

Japs Being Driven Off of Airfield

By OLEN CLEMENTS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 29 (P)—Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commanding the Allied land forces in New Guinea, is in the field for the "kill" at Salamaua, General MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today.

General Blamey's American and Australian troops now stand at the southwestern edge of the airfield and are cautiously infiltrating the Japanese positions.

Having driven the enemy out of difficult mountain positions, the Allied troops are fighting on both sides of the Francisco river which flows just south of the airfield. Its capture, which would enable Allied bombers to be escorted by fighters on daylight raids against Japanese bases on nearby New Britain, is believed imminent.

Today's communiqué from General MacArthur dealt almost entirely with air action both in the New Guinea sector and over the Solomons. The biggest action, which occurred Thursday, was a strong raid by Liberators, Corsairs and Kittyhawks on the enemy air base of Kahili, on Southern Bougainville. During a raid on the airfield, thirty Japanese interceptors took on the Americans in running battles. Fourteen enemy planes were downed. There was no mention of any American losses.

On the day of that raid, other bombers blasted along the Kula gulch which might supply Japan's isolated air base at Vila on Kolombangara. Barges are Vila's main source of supply now that Americans occupy Vella Lavella above Kolombangara and New Georgia below it.

It was the third straight day of daylight raids on Kolombangara. Barges also were targets in the New Guinea-New Britain area above the Salamaua land front. Harrasing the enemy's land as well as his sea transport lanes, Mitchell's bombers the Gori river bridge on the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

H. G. Wells Says World Must Soon Be Socialistic

Revolutionary Move Declared Necessary

By CARLOS DE NEGRI

Staff Writer of Excelsior, Mexico City
LONDON, Aug. 29—In the first interview he has given any newspaper since the war began H. G. Wells today made to this reporter the following transcendental statement:

"There is no way out of the present chaotic state of human affairs but a worldwide revolutionary movement on an egalitarian Socialistic basis."

Wells added: "Unless such a conclusion is reached humanity will find no profit from this war at all but increase in its distress."

Considered one of the most distinguished thinkers on humanity today, Wells agreed to answer my questions after telling me that since the war broke out he has dedicated all his time to study and meditation and that this is the first time he had given a journalistic interview.

Statement to World

Leaning on the same little desk where the celebrated historian-philosopher has written for millions of men, I took notes for Excelsior of Mexico of Wells's declarations which he said were directed "to all men in the world who desire and are worthy to be happy."

Wells said: "I hope a world relieved from waste and the destruction of competition, of which war is only an intenser form, can achieve triumphs of scientific, artistic and productive achievements beyond anything we can dream of at the present time, because this new order in the world would relieve creative energy of hundreds of millions of human beings who now have neither freedom nor energy for self achievement."

In his hands he held my questionnaire and beside him was Mister Peter, his cat, as he summarized his thought, product of more than half a century of study and meditation. "A gathering number of people of the world are moving toward the conviction that something more than great promises and assertions from above are needed. They ask for more than charters and guarantees. They ask that everywhere in the unifying world ahead of us the fundamental law of the community shall be the natural universal rights of man."

Substance Available

"Mankind has now all the power and substance available for universal plenty and wellbeing beyond the dream of any previous age and he is wasting it all in destruction. "This war neither began nor will end that."

"There can be no end to all this slaughter, privation and misery which now goes on from bad to worse unless there is a wide agreement among human beings all round about the earth to end it."

"Mere victory of one power over another will end nothing if the black traditions that come to us from the past are not also defeated."

Wells said that the concept of human justice which should be applied in government in the future world should include a formula equally valid for "China as for Mexico—for the whole world."

To repeat one of my questions, "what has to end?" Wells said: (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Guffey Assails GOP Conference Set for Sept. 6

Purely Political, Senator Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (P)—Senator Guffey (D-Pa.) declared today that the purpose of the Republican conference to begin at Mackinac Island, Mich., Sept. 6 "is as plainly political as the disguise of that purpose is transparent."

Guffey, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign committee, asserted that "the G.O.P. has a fierce factional war on hand" and added:

"The prospective collusion between the Wilkie-Lite Allied cooperation program after the war, and the isolation sentiments attributable to some other Republican candidates, has little to do with international results and much to do with internal G.O.P. strategy."

"Hence the session on Senator Vandenberg's home grounds, with membership largely composed of pre-Pearl Harbor isolationists (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Balkans May Be Scene of Revolt Against Germany

Death of Boris Blow to Hitler

LONDON, Aug. 29 (P)—A mad scramble for power sufficient to set the Balkans ablaze following the mysterious death of King Boris of Bulgaria was predicted today by London morning newspapers as Germany faced collaboration problems 1,100 miles apart across subjugated Europe.

In addition to keeping sharp watch on Bulgaria, bomb shaken Germany had to crush a "people's revolt" in Denmark thereby ending the fiction "that the little Scandinavian country was a cheerful, willing collaborator and a happy example of the model Nazi vassal state."

Hitler Calls Conference

The Moscow radio asserted that Hitler had called a conference of the heads of all Satellite states "in order to discuss the international situation" possibly as a result of the Danish-Balkan manifestations. Mourning was displayed in Axis capitals for Boris, but radio France reported from an unstated source that there were anti-Fascist demonstrations when the king's death was announced in Sofia.

Balkan dispatches to the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet reported that a drastic switch in Bulgarian foreign policy from collaboration with Germany to friendship with Russia was expected.

King Boris's death raised the question of whether there was anyone in the Bulgarian royal family who would be able to hold the nation together, and whether Premier Philov or the royal council were strong enough to keep the country's German policy going.

Scored by Churchill

King Boris, once described by Prime Minister Winston Churchill as the "traitor king" had followed a policy of double dealing with the Germans, yielding troops to fight Yugoslav guerrillas and Greeks but not to fight Russia. He was able to keep the war-weary country in the Axis camp, however, despite the feelings of the people who always have looked up to "mother Russia" for the role played by the czars in the struggles for Bulgarian independence.

Boris never had dared, however, to lead his country into formal war with Russia although he had declared war on Britain and the United States.

Russia Interns American Airmen

Crew Forced Down On Soviet Land

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 30 (P)—The Moscow radio said early today that an American plane had landed on Russia's Kamchatka peninsula Aug. 12 and its crew was interned. Kamchatka is north of Paramushiro, the Japanese North Pacific island outpost which has been raided several times by American airmen in the Aleutians.

The Tass dispatch, broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor, quoted the crew members as saying they had made a raid on Japanese positions in the Kurile islands, of which Paramushiro is a part, and then were forced to land in Soviet territory because of engine trouble.

Sec. Perkins Stresses Importance Of Women in War Production Work

By JACK GROVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (P)—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins released survey figures today to show that mere man is becoming merer all the time in industry, with new employees feminine by nearly five to one.

And the Department of Commerce knocked just about the last prop from under man's traditional position "as the dominant worker with a study which reached the conclusion that the women are doing an excellent job—with few exceptions are proving the equal of the men whom they replaced."

Of the 1,833,000 net increase in factory workers between April, 1942, and June, 1943, more than four-fifths belonged to the sex that hell hath no fury like, it scorned by a foreman or anybody else.

Some thirty per cent of all factory hands now working were formerly eligible for cradle rocking and infernal world-ruling, Miss Perkins reported.

Allied Bombers Cover South and Central Italy

Raids Extend Far To North of Rome

By NOLAN NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 29 (P)—Allied air units increased the intensity of their round-the-clock blows against Southern and Central Italy yesterday and last night with bombing raids extending to the north of Rome. Returning fliers said the Italian toe appeared to have been deserted by the enemy.

Heavy and medium bombers from North African bases again concentrated on vital rail centers along the western side of the mainland while American four-engine Liberators from the Middle East joined in the offensive by attacking shipping and rail installations at Taranto, important naval base on the Italian heel.

Large Cruiser Hit

The Liberators, which attacked in two waves, scored a direct hit on a large cruiser, from which heavy black smoke was seen to rise, and a near miss on a medium sized vessel believed to be a transport.

A United States Ninth Air Force communiqué from Cairo said "particularly heavy damage was done to railway installations" at Taranto, with one direct hit on the main station and another on a freight train in the yards which exploded and burned. Other bursts were seen on sidings, repair shops and freight depots and in the main barracks area. The Cairo bulletin said smoke rising from the target could be seen for twenty-five miles.

The Taranto raid followed a night attack from the Middle East by RAF Liberators and Halifaxes, which pounded Crotone on the sole of the Italian boot, hitting a chemical works, starting fires and returning without loss.

Bomb Railroad Yards

American Flying Fortresses from North Africa made the day's deepest penetration into enemy territory, striking briefly but effectively at the railroad yards at Terni, forty-five miles north of Rome.

The Fortresses and the medium bombers which attacked many other communication targets in the Naples area encountered large numbers of enemy fighters.

Many New Plane Carriers Ready To Battle Japs

Big and Small Ones Prepare for Action

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (P)—Approximately one dozen new combat aircraft carriers launched since the attack on Pearl Harbor will help "smash the Jap into complete defeat."

This was reported by the navy today—the thirtieth anniversary of the establishment of the naval aviation arm by order of Admiral George Dewey of Manila Bay fame.

One of the new carriers, the Hornet, is to be launched at Norfolk, Va., tomorrow. It succeeds the old Hornet, for which army planes took off to bomb Tokyo.

In addition to the giant carriers, the navy said undisclosed numbers of "baby flat-tops" are in action or approaching readiness for battle.

New Air Blows Soon

"Huge task forces, spearheaded by carrier-based aircraft, are poised for new pile driver blows against the enemy," said Vice Admiral John S. McCain, deputy chief of naval operations for air, in an anniversary statement.

"The navy has always sought to bring all its weapons to bear against an enemy simultaneously, believing that such coordinated attack is the most effective."

"Naval aviation has become an extremely powerful weapon, possibly the most powerful."

Soldier Tells Graphic Story Of Invasion

Describes German Defense of Sicily

MT. AIRY, Md., Aug. 29 (P)—From a foxhole in a Sicilian peach orchard, Robert Smith wrote to his brother a graphic story of invasion. Smith, with a medical outfit, wrote:

"We landed at daybreak, and waded ashore in water waist deep. We had no sooner reached the beach than enemy planes came over and we had to dig in."

"After that we walked about a mile and camped in a peach orchard for cover. Just about that time firing broke out again, and we were watching a tank battle."

"The situation got too hot for medical so we moved on and dug in again until everything was under control. We stayed in those fox-holes the whole day because planes came over bombing and strafing. I tried to eat four times, but I gave up: there was no place to eat. I even slept in the foxhole that night. After that everything has been going all right."

Germany Decrees Martial Law as Revolt Spreads

45 Ships Destroyed By Angry Citizens

(By The Associated Press)

German guards armed with guns and machineguns have prevented the arrest of thirty prominent Fascist leaders hiding in the German embassy building in Rome, the Tass news agency reported in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press from Moscow today.

The report, which the Russians said came from Istanbul, declared that the Fascists had been hiding in the building on Conte Russo street for a month.

By JOHN COLBURN

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 29 (P)—Germany clamped down a military dictatorship over Denmark today, but the efforts to crush the revolting Danes met violent resistance immediately as Danish naval forces scuttled most of their fleet in a battle with German troops.

Forty-five ships were scuttled as the battle raged in Copenhagen naval yards with Nazis storming vainly trying to prevent the destruction, said one Danish witness who escaped to Sweden. Fighting also was reported in Copenhagen barracks between the Germans and royal guard this afternoon.

Martial Law Proclaimed
Fresh German troops, planes, tanks and armored cars were flung into the strategic little kingdom swept by rebellion and sabotage.

Nazi Gen. Herman von Hanneken proclaimed martial law, threatening ruthless enforcement of his decrees.

Nine Danish ships—two small destroyers, six torpedo boats, and a minesweeper—fled to Sweden, escaping the Nazi screws tightened upon the nation of 4,000,000 people who occupy the peninsula and islands dividing the North and Baltic seas.

The Germans were taking no chances of losing control in this country which affords the shortest invasion highway by land to Berlin. Venerable King Christian X, who will be seventy-three next month, was interned in Sorgenfri castle outside Copenhagen, and other government leaders resigned and were arrested after accepting an eight-point German ultimatum, said advice seeping through a strict communication blackout.

The Danish scuttling followed on a smaller scale the blazing French example when the Germans poured into Toulon last November to overrun all France in a vain bid to seize the French fleet.

Danes Wreck Harbor
Violent explosions shook the Copenhagen harbor area in the murky pre-dawn order as the Danes blew up ammunition dumps and blasted holes in ship hulls to send them to the bottom.

The detonations drowned out machinegun and rifle shots and the rumble of tanks as Danes and Germans clashed on the shore. Fires started by the explosions cast a thick smoke pall over the harbor.

"(Jane's Fighting Ships) lists the Danish navy as having two coastal defense ships—the Niels Juel of 3,800 tons and Peder Skram of 1,500-tons—which lie between a destroyer and cruiser in size, thirty (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

U. S. Government Reaffirms Plan To Punish the Axis War Guilty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (P)—The United States government reaffirmed today "its resolve to punish the instigators and actual perpetrators" of German atrocities against the people of Poland.

It was four years ago next Wednesday that the Germans marched into that nation to begin the European war.

Nazis Commit Many Crimes
The State department, in a "declaration on German crimes in Poland," said that trustworthy information regarding "crimes committed by the German invaders" against the Polish population, crimes which the department said are being carried out with "the utmost brutality."

The text of the declaration follows:

"Trustworthy information has reached the United States government regarding the crimes committed by the German invaders against the population of Poland. Since the autumn of 1942 a belt of territory extending from the province of Bialystok southwards along the line of the river Bug has been systematically emptied of its inhabitants. In July, 1943, these measures were extended to practically the whole of the province of Lublin, where hundreds of thousands of persons have been deported from their homes or exterminated."

Frederick Hit By Drought as Well as the War

Decker Describes County Conditions

By W. HENRY DECKER
City editor, the Frederick Post
FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—Along with the grief that has visited families and friends of fifty-five men named in casualty lists, a major disappointment has come to Frederick county in this second year of global war.

This fertile agricultural area has suffered its worst drought since 1930. Plans to surpass 1942's bumper farm production record have been blasted.

Continued dry weather not only kept farms from producing their intended share of food for freedom but also has left farmers to face the problem of obtaining sufficient feed for their livestock during the coming winter.

Heavy Casualty List

The county's casualty list included thirteen killed, twenty-six wounded, nine missing and seven reported prisoners of war.

A year ago, local residents were clamoring for war industries and hundreds migrated to Hagerstown, Washington, Baltimore and other industrial areas. The public cry was somewhat abated. Local industries are busy on war contracts. Construction labor has been mobilized for two army camp projects in this section, and a navy school is being conducted here.

Civilian defense officials have noted some decline in interest of personnel and the local Red Cross chapter has been short of workers on medical supplies. The American women's volunteer service has been active, operating a canteen for entertainment of service men and women. Other organizations have sponsored recreation centers and entertainment for army and navy personnel stationed nearby.

Women Replacing Men

Calls for blood donors have been answered by more than the number of needed volunteers. Draft calls continue to take their quota of men, although the drain on essential farm labor was halted satisfactorily early this year. More and more women are replacing men, drafted from the factories.

The labor shortage, food rationing, transportation difficulties and other causes have been cited as reasons for the closing of some small restaurants, stores and other business places. Some of the aged farmers, unable to obtain help, have sold out.

Farm Corps Hard Hit

The anticipated labor shortage that plagued farmers last spring was eliminated by the lack of rainfall. With the exception of a fairly good hay crop, farmers have little to show for the season's work. The same holds true in the canning industry which operated on an abbreviated schedule with fewer than the usual number of employees because crops were so short.

County residents are proud of Frederick's record in the second war loan drive. The county far exceeded its large quota and residents consistently have met monthly quotas in buying stamps and bonds.

A typical American community, Frederick has reacted optimistically to Allied triumphs in the battlefronts. Many are growing about gasoline and food rationing. Complaints are heard about the judgment of draft boards in selecting men.

But despite grumbling, the severe drought and the casualty announcements, it is apparent that most citizens are contributing cheerfully in some manner to the nation's war effort.

Soldier Tells

Many of the Italian soldiers, Smith wrote, just walk down a road waiting to be picked up and most of the prisoners seem happy after they are captured.

And most of the people in Sicily were glad to see the Yanks. They even clap their hands when Americans go by, the soldier reported.

"The Germans have taken everything from them. They are about half starved. Water is also scarce here. I saw women fighting for water in one of the towns."

Submarine Sinkings Show Big Decrease

(By The Associated Press)

Announced sinkings of United Nations and neutral shipping in the Western Atlantic in the first thirty-five weeks of 1943 were slightly more than three a week, in contrast to the average of ten weekly in the first year of the war.

An Associated Press tabulation showed merchant ship losses of non-Axis powers in these waters have aggregated 686 ships since Pearl Harbor. Last week the navy announced no new sinkings in the Western Atlantic, the first time since June that such a weekly report has been issued.

War Production Strikes Averted

Allis-Chalmers Work To Continue

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 29 (AP)—A threatened walkout at two Springfield war production plants of the Allis-Chalmers manufacturing company was averted at least temporarily today when members of District 50, United Mine Workers of America, decided to continue at work pending a hearing scheduled by the War Labor Board in Washington Sept. 11.

By a unanimous voice vote taken at a mass meeting attended by 165 persons, a WLB invitation to district 50 representatives to attend the hearing was accepted.

Selection of Charles Edwards, chairman, and Miss Maureen Benson and Ray Downey of the district 50 employees organizing committee to attend the hearing also was approved.

Hugh White, district 50 regional director, Joseph Marchesi, sub-regional director, and Ray Edmundson, president of the UMW of Illinois district 12, also will attend, White said.

Edmundson declared at the mass meeting that the certification of the district 50 jurisdictional dispute with the CIO-affiliated United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers to the WLB was a "victory" for district 50. He urged that strike action be withheld pending the hearing.

In a strike vote under the Smith-Connally act held Aug. 4—first in the nation—the workers voted 1,005 to 836, their willingness to interrupt war production.

Earlier district 50 officials had called the mass meeting to determine the time of a walkout they predicted would begin either at midnight tonight or 8 a. m. tomorrow. Yesterday's scheduling of the WLB hearing, White said, "saved the situation at the eleventh hour."

District 50 claims a membership of about 1,500 in the two plants.

Treasury To Borrow $21,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The treasury intends to borrow $21,000,000,000 during the last four months of this year.

Under Secretary Daniel W. Bell reported tonight that government spending in that period will aggregate $35,000,000,000 while revenues will total only $14,000,000,000.

However, should the $15,000,000,000 third war loan which opens September 9 follow the pattern of the two previous drives most or all of the needed funds might come from war bond sales along without recourse to banking sources.

The first war loan last December was oversubscribed nearly $4,000,000,000 above the original $2,000,000,000 goal. The second, in April, aimed at $13,000,000,000 and brought in a total of $18,000,000,000. Thus a forty per cent oversubscription of the approaching drive would net the full $21,000,000,000.

Banks, excluded from participation in the third war loan, will be offered an unspecified amount of securities later in the year, according to treasury plans. Those funds if the drive is over-subscribed, would be available to carry war financing into 1944.

Farmers Asked To Provide Lumber

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The government turned to farmers today with an appeal for aid in a nationwide drive to meet wartime requirements for lumber.

The War Food Administration (WFA), the forestry service and the War Production Board (WPB) disclosed completion of a co-operative program designed to increase sharply the production of forest products from farm-owned woodlands.

Europe Seething With Unrest as Sabotage Spreads

Uprisings Start In Several Areas

By HAMILTON W. FARON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The underground, expected ultimately to play a major part in crushing the Axis, shows signs of seething throughout occupied Europe.

From every quarter come new indications of the growing anxiety of the enslaved nations to cast off German oppression and to gain revenge for their suffering under Axis domination.

The signal for the uprisings—promised fighting patriots of conquered lands when time is ripe for co-ordinated action—apparently has not gone out from Allied sources. Instead the actions are wholly spontaneous outpourings of pent-up hatred.

That spontaneity may be more harmful than helpful in the long run, if the signal has not been given. Small and localized actions against the Germans, sabotage, guerrilla warfare all can be carried out by individuals or small bands. But a general movement, timed too soon, could have the effect of causing only temporary difficulties for the invaders, and harm to the underground through revealing its leadership.

German Trick Fails

Such disclosure of patriotic leaders and plans already has been sought on occasions by Germany. An example was the German broadcast directed toward the Balkans recently which asserted Allied troops had landed on the mainland of Italy and were advancing up the boot. Strategists believe the inaccurate broadcast was principally an attempt to force the underground leaders to move into the open. The plan failed.

In Denmark, which well may be the scene of one thrust in the eventual invasion of Continental Europe, destruction and violence surging through occupied countries has reached a peak. Rather than longer submit to the invader, patriots are turning and blowing up their industries, and Danish sailors have scuttled most of the tiny Danish fleet, Stockholm reports.

Some possibilities exist that the uprisings there may have been deliberately provoked in another Nazi attempt not only to force leaders into the open, but as a fishing expedition in an effort to gain an indication of invasion plans. That possibility was seen by military observers in discussion of the German decree of martial law in Denmark—"could it be invasion jitters?"

Unrest in Sweden

Unrest is growing across the Kattegat in neutral Sweden which is at odds with Germany over the sinking of Swedish merchant ships.

In France the Gestapo is reported to have arrested—in effect kidnapped—the former president, Albert Le-Brun, who could have been engaged in activities aiding French patriots against the Axis. The cause of his arrest, however, was not disclosed in meager information from Swiss sources.

Bulgaria, Axis partner in the war against Russia, is reported in an uproar since the sudden death of King Boris. Some observers here feel that he was assassinated after quarreling with Hitler and refusing to send Bulgarian troops to the Russian front.

Allied Bombers

shot down by the North African air units in the day and night operations against an Allied loss of eight planes.

An Italian communique broadcast by the Rome radio told of raids by "large air formations" on the central and southern provinces but declared that the Allies lost twenty-nine planes—sixteen of them downed by Italian fighters, eight by German fighters and five by anti-aircraft batteries.

American twin-engine Mitchells and Marauders led the attacks on rail junctions in the Naples area. Mitchell's pounded the rail yards at Cancello, about twelve miles northeast of Naples, and shot up radio installations on the island of Ventotene off the Neapolitan coast. Marauders poured another hail of bombs on the already battered rail yards at Aversa, about fifteen miles north of Naples.

four torpedo boats, twelve submarines, three minesweepers, and other patrol and depot ships.)

A traveler on a ferry boat reaching Helsingborg from Denmark said he had heard that the Danish royal guard was fighting Germans in the barracks at the capital. German planes circled over Copenhagen all day in huge numbers in ominous patrol.

Escape to Sweden

The ships that escaped to Sweden carried about 400 persons, many of them army and navy officers and personnel, and there was speculation whether some government members might have escaped. It was believed the military personnel would be interned.

All the ships docked at Landskrona, except for one torpedo boat which eluded guns of a German submarine and airplane before racing into Malmö on the southern tip of Sweden.

While the fate of King Christian and the cabinet was uncertain, Danes in Sweden considered it likely they were all under house arrest, and one report via Malmö said German soldiers had occupied Sorgenfri castle.

Denmark, once famed for its butter and bacon production, had been under German sway since the almost bloodless occupation April 9, 1940, but now Danish courts and the government were swept aside by von Hanneken, already hated by the Danes. He is known as a "Goering man."

His decree putting the country entirely under the Nazi war boot came in a broadcast proclamation at 4:10 a. m. today asserting that "recent disturbances have shown that Danish authorities are no longer in a position to maintain law and order," and that "disturbances created by enemy agents are directly pointed at German armed forces."

Strict Curfew Imposed

The decree forbade all strikes, imposed a curfew at dusk, banned civil communications, and declared that "all incitement to strike to the detriment of German armed forces will be considered as an enemy act and will usually be punished by death."

All assemblies of more than five persons in public or private were forbidden, with church services the only exception.

The position of German Minister Werner Best, who had followed a policy of liberal collaboration with the Danes, was not clear. He was reported to have declared after Danish rejection of his ultimatum that "I'm a dead man in Berlin."

My policy has failed," von Hanneken's decree put most of the ultimatum demands into effect.

Best had been in Germany to receive instructions on combating the resistance and one report said he conferred with Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, whose ruthless iron-hand methods were detected in the measures newly invoked in Denmark.

Thus Denmark, once Hitler's so-called "model protectorate," joined Norway, Holland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and other European countries under Nazi oppression.

But whether the Germans will have any more success there than in the other countries in suppressing sabotage of their rule and the war effort is considered doubtful in view of the violent new mood of the usually compliant Danes.

Danes in Stockholm said there was every indication that their countrymen would continue, despite the threat of the death penalty for such acts.

Canada's Cost Of Living Low, Survey Asserts

Price Stability Figures Given

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—Canada's anti-inflation program has held the living cost increase to seventeen per cent, compared with a twenty-eight per cent rise for Great Britain and twenty-six per cent for the United States, the Brookings Institution reported today.

These figures were for the three and a half years since the war started, in Sept. 1939.

"This high degree of price stability has been achieved despite the fact that about half the national output is used for war purposes," the institution, a privately funded research group, said in a survey.

Canada, the report said, has "dealt vigorously" with both the fiscal and wage phases of the problem.

Fiscal policy has emphasized the obtaining of funds from current earnings and includes heavy taxation and both voluntary and compulsory savings," the survey said. "Wages have been regulated to reduce upward pressure on costs. A general price ceiling is supplemented by subsidy payments and allocation and rationing of goods. A general ceiling was established over wage rates and a bonus was provided to compensate for any rise in the cost of living."

The Canadians, Brookings reported, increased the tax load "quickly and decisively" when the war started. In the four years ending on March 31 of this year, tax revenues were drawn on for sixty-three per cent of the government's expenditures, while only about sixteen per cent came from the sale of securities to banks, with the balance from security sales to the public, institutional and corporate investors.

"Half the heavy expenditures of the 1942-43 fiscal year were financed by taxation," the report said.

our troops destroyed or disabled 110 enemy tanks and shot down eighty-two enemy planes in air combat and by anti-aircraft fire," it was announced.

Moscow dispatches earlier had reported that Russian forces driving forward in the face of fierce German counter-attacks continued the general advance which appears to be developing in two directions, west toward Kiev and south toward Poltava.

Advance in Ukraine

The army newspaper Red Star said the Soviet troops pushing westward through the Ukraine had crossed an important waterline at several points west of Kharkov. While the dispatch did not name the water-line, it might be the Psel river, which the Russians reached yesterday at a point 100 miles west of Kharkov.

With the Germans apparently planning to withdraw to new defense lines along the Dnieper river, reports reaching London said there were indications that Poltava and Krasnodar might be outflanked.

If the Russians reach the river, these reports said, fifty German divisions in the Ukraine and thirty more in the Kuban bridge of the Caucasus—a total of probably 800,000 troops—would find their avenue of escape threatened.

A German communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said battles were raging with increasing violence on the Central and Southern sectors of the Russian front.

It said tanks and planes were being used in great numbers by both sides but said nothing on the progress of the battles.

Count Ciano Escapes From Home in Rome

LONDON, Aug. 29 (AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian foreign minister and son-in-law of Benito Mussolini, escaped from Rome yesterday with his wife and three children, the German overseas radio reported today.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, said Ciano eluded a police guard at his home and fled to an unknown haven.

The house had been closely guarded day and night by eight detectives and Ciano had not left home since July 26, the broadcast asserted, adding that his wife, the former Edia Mussolini, had left home every day for brief walks with her children and had also received friends.

It was generally expected here that a formal order ending the ban on pleasure driving in the East would be delayed until the last practicable moment, probably Monday, to head off any tendency of motorists to take to the highways in force this week-end.

The relaxation of the non-essential driving rule was promised two weeks ago by Chester Bowles, OPA general manager, who then also held out the "hope" of an increase from the present one and half gallons to two gallons in "A" coupon values in the East in September, but said motorists would have to earn it for themselves by driving economy that would permit stocks to be built up.

"The United States government reaffirms its resolve to punish the instigators and actual perpetrators of these crimes. It further declares that, so long as such atrocities continue to be committed by the representatives and in the name of Germany, they must be taken into account against the time of the final settlement with Germany. Meanwhile the war against Germany will be prosecuted with the utmost vigor until the barbarous Hitlerite tyranny has been finally overthrown."

To operate from the big carriers, from their smaller counterparts and from land bases of naval aviation throughout the world, the navy disclosed, 27,500 bombing, fighting and cargo planes will be in service by the end of this year. They are being turned out in ever-increasing numbers as shown by doubled airplane production in 1942 compared with the previous year and a certainty that naval plane deliveries in 1943 will triple those of a year ago.

All this, the navy reported, grew from its aviation branch which consisted only of thirty-eight officers, 61 enlisted men and fifty-four airplanes at the outbreak of the first world war.

Akron Men Caught After Wild Chase

Hogan and Zurbuch Escaped from Detention Home August 24

A wild chase at speeds of at least seventy miles an hour resulted in the capture of two Akron youths who escaped from the Akron detention home a month ago, according to Sgt. Harold C. Carl of the state police.

The Akron youths, Kenneth Zurbuch and Thomas Joseph Hogan, who police said stole a 1941 Oldsmobile coupe in Akron August 24, have been in this vicinity for several days.

The car Hogan was driving, Sgt. Carl said, was out of control all the four miles to Route 40, and only luck prevented serious collisions, since Hogan was obviously an inexperienced driver.

The Akron driver turned west at Route 40, and almost sideswiped several cars coming toward this city. That collisions were prevented was probably due, Sgt. Carl said, to the fact that the motorists heard the siren on the police car and pulled to the side of the road.

Hogan lost control of the car altogether at the Gulf bulk plant at the Narrows, Sgt. Carl said, and applied the brakes and stopped the car.

His companion, Zurbuch, was arrested yesterday afternoon at 12:25 o'clock by Sgt. Carl, and was taken to the county jail with Zurbuch.

The boys escaped from the Akron detention home, Sgt. Carl said, where they were being held for court action. Hogan as an incorrigible, and Zurbuch, on a charge of burglary. They are being held for Akron police.

A Maryland Resolution

ITS REAPPEARANCE in a volume of public documents calls to the minds of the editors of the Cincinnati Times-Star that on April 9, 1924, the General Assembly of Maryland passed a joint resolution and memorial to Congress, which that newspaper says ranks among students as one of the significant state papers of our history. Its substance is disclosed in its opening words and in its first resolution:

"WHEREAS, The enactment of laws of Congress authorizing appropriations to the several states on condition that similar appropriations be made by the states compels each state to undertake work which it may not wish to undertake or lose its share of the federal appropriation, in which case it would be compelled to contribute in taxes to the work in other states, of which its people disapprove and from which they derive no benefit.

"RESOLVED, That the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress be, and they are hereby requested and urged to repeal all laws which authorize appropriations to the several states in the form of federal aid on condition that similar appropriations are made by the respective states."

This resolution, the Times-Star recalls, was passed in the Coolidge administration, when the political phenomenon against which it was directed had assumed only modest proportions.

"Since then," it says, "the thing, and the direct federal spending which succeeded it, have almost overshadowed the map. The state of Maryland, whose espousal of religious toleration and civil rights when the federal constitution was adopted was a major contribution to the republic, saw in the phenomenon just what it was—a procedure to take away the basic rights of states. With gifts in one hand and a club in the other, the central government has gone far in that direction.

"Maryland's distinguished governor, Albert Cabell Ritchie, toured the country delivering impassioned addresses against centralization, one of them in Cincinnati. Had he lived, he would have helped other public men of similar belief, such as Byrd, George and Taft, in making the Maryland Memorial a bulwark of the republic."

Maryland has not remained silent on the question of federal appropriations for state projects and agencies, since the passing of the distinguished governor mentioned, the Cincinnati newspaper may well be reminded, nor on the question of the desirability and necessity for federal decentralization and the correlated question of the preservation of state rights. Its people have not been unmindful of the fact that federal centralization has grown to enormous proportions since the resolution was adopted. The present governor has had much to say on these subjects as did his immediate predecessor, Senator Tydings and various Republican leaders such as Theodore R. McKeldin and Galen S. Tait and many others, and the Cincinnati newspaper may rest assured that much more is to be heard on these subjects in the Free State until the dangerous tendency of federal encroachment is brought to a halt.

Time for Just Income Taxes

THE INJUSTICE inflicted upon a large number of substantial American citizens through discriminatory taxation has been repeatedly stressed by this newspaper as well as others. A letter to the editor in a New York newspaper which moves it to editorial comment brings up the subject with respect to proposals now being heard to increase the tax load on these unfairly burdened taxpayers.

"The O. W. I. is all right as far as they go," the quoted letter states, "but the largest group, comprising millions, they say nothing about. I refer to office help, clerks, salaried employees and executives.

"Millions in this group have homes, insurance premiums, college tuition and other legitimate items of overhead which they are trying to meet out of current income, and it is practically impossible, yet the government is proposing to again increase the taxes of this group, when the higher wages and higher incomes are going to the lower brackets where the net is greater and the overhead has not and cannot be increased."

Everybody almost is familiar with these opposing situations wherein the circumstances of war have increased, even multiplied, an income on the one hand and actually reduced it on the other hand because income has remained static and the burden has been increased by advancing costs.

It is but common sense and common justice, in the words of the Wall Street Journal, in which the reader's letter is quoted, that those in the latter category should receive the benefit of a taxing method which recognizes the plain facts of the case. There ought to be no difficulty in formulating a plan whereby swollen wartime incomes could be reached without penalizing those who have been by-passed.

Another Common Weed Does Wartime Service

THE LOWLY, BUT INTERESTING, MILKWEED is fast becoming one of the important wartime plants of America, with its floss used as a replacement for scarce kapok.

Within the next few weeks, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington reports, a campaign will be launched among farmers in the areas where milkweed grows wild, urging them to pick the pods and sell their harvest to the government.

Kapok is no longer coming into the United States from the Netherlands East Indies, prewar source for ninety per cent of our supply.

Officials say milkweed floss is the only American plant fiber which, like kapok, is hollow and has air cells inside it. Lengthy tests have shown it meets all specifications for kapok, useful in life preservers, airplane insulation and other vital military products.

A harvest of a million pounds of milkweed floss has been set as the goal for this year, with the figure raised to three million for 1944 and five million for 1945.

Truly necessity is the mother of invention, and as the war goes on, America is becoming more and more self-sufficient.

If former Undersecretary of State Welles gets in touch with Moley, Farley, Edison, Woodring, Garner and ex-Editor Stout of the Saturday Evening Post, they should be able to organize a club.

The Allies have a "floating navy yard" in the Mediterranean sea which is said to be equipped to repair anything from a battleship to wrist watch. It is also doing a fine job helping fix Hitler's clock.

The post-war car, we're promised, will have tops in comfort, transparent plastic bodies, super-ease in driving, great economy in operation and—best of all—gas in the tank.

Hitler's star of destiny is beginning to closely resemble a meteorite which is about to go out of business.

The moaning at the bar may be due to the difficulty of getting liquor cheaper elsewhere.

The Browser's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A couple of years ago a young man named Robert Paul Smith wrote a novel, "So It Doesn't Whistle," that had considerable success and was highly praised by H. Allen Smith, Kay Boyle, Martha Gellhorn, Hemingway and Kenneth Fearing. Now he has written another short novel, "The Journey" (Holt and Company), which convinces the Browser that (1) Mr. Smith has a remarkable talent and also (2) that Mr. Smith does not yet know quite what to do with it.

Marshall Maslin

"The Journey" is about Paul Marrane who makes good money writing advertising copy but is completely fed up and determined to get away and find (1) his soul or (2) himself.

So he goes on his way. First he has an interlude in a wayside auto camp with a girl who had a thin face, cheek-bones high, and full cruel lips. Then he drove on to visit a girl named Bess who doesn't love him but he hopes she will some day but he's afraid she never will. After a week she sends him on his way again and he heads for Mexico.

On the boat he met and enjoyed conversation with a fat steward named Fernin who was wise beyond his avoirdupois and well aware that it condemned him to menial jobs for life.

In Mexico City he learned to play jai-alai, he heard two gypsies singing in a joint, he visited the ruins of Teotihuacan, he wrote a letter to Bess—and she came down to Mexico.

Nothing of any importance happened. They learned that between them there was hunger and pity but not love—"and what they had was nothing, less than nothing." The Journey ends on that note, arriving nowhere.

The Browser is no Polyanna in respect to literature but he does believe that a book that ends on a vague note is incompletely realized by the author. Mr. Smith before he writes a third novel, expressing his fine talent, should have a talk with a hardboiled publisher.

David Ewen's "The Story of George Gershwin" (Holt) is also the story of a journey, but one with a happy ending. The poor boy who's hands away from a piano became the greatest of American composers. His music has faults of structure that betray Gershwin's lack of musical training, but no other American music has his drive, facility, dynamic force and native quality.

David Ewen, old friend of Gershwin, has written a swift, dramatic story of a man who knew what he wanted to do and refused to do anything else. There are fine touches in the book—of Irving Berlin asking George to be his musical secretary and advising him to refuse the job. . . . of Paul Whiteman making up his mind that George could write a "big" piece of music, announcing its playing before it was even conceived and forcing Gershwin to write "Rhapsody in Blue" (a composition that made its creator a rich man). . . . and of the never-ending joy that Gershwin found in music to the end of his days. A lively book.

Bernice Richmond's "Winter Harbor" (Holt) has life in it, too. Mrs. Richmond is not a professional writer, but she is fully capable of putting into words the fun she and her husband had in buying and fixing-up and living in a lighthouse off the Maine coast. Here this professional pianist found what she had always wanted, a home with the sea roaring around her. The book is worth reading, if only because it shows how two persons can find positive joy in this age of disruption. It is also full of interesting Maine facts. It delighted Marshall

Allies See Alike Regarding France, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Limited recognition by the United States and Britain of the DeGaulle-Giraud national committee in Algiers and unlimited recognition by Russia does not mean any divergence of view of the Allies. The United States and Britain by their limited recognition merely are exercising a caution growing out of the fact that for the duration of the war the Anglo-American military and naval commanders may have concrete problems to solve with local officials in various colonies or possessions now under de facto rule. Russia has none of these problems facing her and no responsibilities in that connection so there was no reason why Moscow shouldn't have granted unqualified recognition.

Likewise, the fact that a caution or reservation has been expressed by the British-American statement does not signify that the step is undertaken reluctantly or halfheartedly. It merely is a realistic acceptance of the viewpoint of the military, namely that there may be situations arising in Syria and in France itself when invasion comes which may make it desirable for the military command to be able to proceed without regard to perplexing considerations arising out of French factionalism or the ambitions of those who aspire to civil office in the new French republic.

Custodians of Gold

Also it must not be forgotten that the British and American governments are the custodians of tens of millions of dollars of French gold and other property and it is essential that these questions be handled with great care so that American trusteeship shall not produce repercussions inside France itself. In other words, America and Britain have difficult questions yet to wrestle with relating to the restoration of a free government to France and cannot therefore detach themselves completely and turn over to a French committee resident away from France itself complete responsibility as yet, especially when the French people have not, and cannot under present circumstances, express themselves.

The Russian move is not in the least frowned upon here because the gesture of complete recognition will lend prestige to the DeGaulle-Giraud setup and tend to put the left wingers in France and elsewhere behind the new French National Committee thus insuring for it a backing which for many months had been lacking when Giraud alone was in power.

Puppet Rule Intolerable

There is the added fact that America and British do not wish to place themselves in the position of having created a "puppet government" such as the Axis powers have been accustomed to setting up among the countries with which they became associated. The limited recognition policy means plainly that the United States and Britain are feeling their way. If the French National Committee doesn't develop a temperamental streak and produce headaches for the military chieftains of the United States and Britain in the midst of war operations there is every indication that before many months have elapsed what is today limited recognition will become unlimited and conform to the normal relationship that exists between sovereign nations.

Strictly speaking, under the precedents of international law recognition is not usually extended to any government or group or faction unless it is in full military possession of the region or area for which it seeks de facto recognition. The United States and Britain cannot overlook the fact that the entire territory of France in Europe is in the hands of the enemy.

Problem Not Easy

The problem of the exiled governments, however, is not an easy one to solve but in virtually all instances the so-called governments have retained the rulers or the ministries which were in office when the enemy invasion drove them from the seat of authority over the homeland. The average person outside of

Farley Enjoys Quiet Smile, Mallon Says, Over Haskell's Nomination in New York

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—The semblance of a suppressed smile flickered on the face of James A. Farley in pictures of the New York state committee meeting—and not without reason. The story told the public was that President Roosevelt's emissary, National Chairman Frank Walker, hurried up to New York and arranged the nomination of Lieutenant Gen. Haskell, of the national guard, for the special lieutenant governorship election.

Kelland Plan Invites Debate

From the Pittsburgh Press

To the Republican party and to the American people Clarence Budington Kelland has offered a foreign policy, challenging, positive, specific.

It is not necessary to agree completely with all of Mr. Kelland's proposals in order to say that it is a fine thing he has spoken so boldly. His proposals invite debate.

It is likely they will provoke discussion aptly, especially at the meeting of the Republican Postwar Advisory Council on Mackinac Island next month. The Republicans who gather at that cool retreat to try to hammer out a broad foreign policy for the party will have something to chew on—something much more substantial than the glittering generalities about the "brave new world."

Whatever criticism anyone may offer to the Kelland plan, no one can say that there is anywhere the slightest tinge of isolationism—that doctrine which was blown to pieces at Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Kelland's suggestions for post-war collaboration with Britain, Russia, China, our American neighbors and all other nations who want to work with us to preserve peace in this world are more definite and far-reaching than any we have seen offered by any other Republican. So too his ideas about extending and strengthening our own defenses for come-what-may if collaboration and alliances fail.

Come to think of it, his proposals are also more definite and positive than we have heard from any Democrat. The administration's foreign policy has been the fabric woven in the day-by-day improvisations of the President, abetted and sometimes confused by the conflicting pronouncements of the State department and those agents of the Office of War Information and the Board (now Office) of Economic Warfare who have felt free of dispend postwar promises in all parts of the globe.

The Republicans meeting at Mackinac have an opportunity to develop something better, something more sure-footed.

Morning Motto

The present state of things is the consequence of the past, and it is natural to inquire as to the sources of the good we enjoy or the evils we suffer. If we act only for ourselves, to neglect the study of history is not prudent; if entrusted with the care of others, it is not just.—JOHNSON.

convinced he will be the nominee anyway.

Pique Is Blamed

Many have wondered why the government failed to live up to all its advance promises to abandon the pleasure driving ban in the East at the time the Mid-west was drawn into rationing.

The promises came from the OPA, and almost directly from its general manager, Bowles, who was working determinedly toward that end. OPA understood that Petroleum Poobah Ickes would join the promise when he went to Chicago for a conference with Mid-west congressmen.

However, the contents of the various plans leaked to the press from the OPA office in Chicago before Ickes had a chance to speak. Ickes came back here mad and refused to allow the ban-lifting as part of the program. He may have had a valid reason, but you cannot convince OPA men of anything except that Ickes was angry at the leak and acted from pique, possibly believing OPA was trying to push him around.

Estrangement has continued between Ickes and OPA since then until recently when Bowles asked him to lunch in an effort to patch up differences.

Another Freedom

From the Pittsburgh Press

The Atlantic Charter does not proclaim nor does our Bill of Rights guarantee this freedom, yet we have retained it intact because, in our most pessimistic moments, we have faith that nobody bred in democracy will choose anything else. It is freedom to listen to the other fellow's arguments.

It must shock totalitarians to read that in the midst of the Sicilian campaign our soldiers and sailors listened freely to German and Italian propaganda programs. Can you imagine any German, Japanese or Italian newspaper carrying, as a regular feature, a list of enemy shortwave stations?

Such things as this, among many others, make it good to be an American.

Hardly Worth Mentioning

From the Pittsburgh Press

Maybe we'd better stop picking on the Office of War Information. Our remarks use up white paper, which is scarce and getting scarcer. So why devote this space to such a playmate matter as the waste of $16,209?

You probably saw the story in the newspapers anyway—how the OWI printed a forty-eight-page propaganda pamphlet ("Food Fights for Freedom"), with the following note on the cover: "Prepared by the Office of Program Co-ordination, Office of War Information, and Office of Price Administration, in co-operation with the War Food Administration."

This, somebody discovered, was a shocking breach of bureaucratic etiquette. The note should have read: "Prepared by the Office of Program Co-ordination, Office of War Information, and the War Food Administration, in co-operation with the Office of Price Administration."

What to do? Why it was simple

Another Fireside Chat Is Expected From Roosevelt

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON. — President Roosevelt is expected today to follow through his historic Quebec conference with Prime Minister Winston Churchill by making a fireside radio chat.

Actually, according to word in Washington, the president planned to make the address weeks ago but the Quebec meeting was scheduled suddenly and the president sent War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, so-called "president of the home front" to the microphones to substitute.

It is likely that major new offensives may be under way in both Europe and in the Pacific by the time the president speaks. Japan probably will get its heaviest blows when the North American winter sets in—both from Burma and from the central Pacific.

Shipping Greatly Improved
More and more emphasis is being placed on the war against Japan, not that the American high command did not want to get in and slug as soon as war broke out but shipping was lacking. This is significant: Figures for August will show that America produced nearly 250,000 tons of combat ships. Highest monthly tonnage since Pearl Harbor, it is equivalent to one-fourth of all our combatant naval strength at the time war broke out.

United States admirals returning from Pacific war fronts to the capital estimate that Japan's first-line aircraft carrier strength is equal to that of the United States. However, the Japanese fleet is refusing to come out and fight and United States task forces may have to thrust deeply into the central Pacific to force a battle.

Canada, according to military attaches returning to Washington, is anxious to get into the battle of the Pacific on a large scale. That was the story behind the navy communiqué that Canadian and American troops had recaptured Kiska without opposition. It was the first time that Canadian troops were used as part of a task force in the Pacific and the American navy was careful to give the Canadians credit. Canada, like her sister dominion of Australia, recognizes the Japs as a distinct threat. It saw Jap occupation of the Aleutians as a danger aimed at its northern provinces.

A Constant Feud
Behind the departure of Nicholas Roosevelt from the Office of War Information lies the feud between the OWI and the armed services. The OWI was only a few days old when it clashed with the army over the way publicity was to be handled at the military trial of eight German saboteurs last July. From then on, it was an almost constant fight. Roosevelt, a second cousin of "T. R." and a distant relative of "F. D. R." was brought in as liaison officer between the OWI and the army and navy, stayed nine months, decided it was futile, resigned.

Elmer Davis's propaganda agency fights for more war news, steadily struggles against a habit of the armed forces to hide war developments under the guise of "military security."

Example
Classic example: OWI compiled a list of German cities, showing the industrial facilities and the importance of each. The army balked, saying that it would not do to let the Germans know that we possessed such information. OWI finally succeeded in having the data released on condition that it would never be printed in full at one time, used only in bits as background when a particular German city was bombed. Fact is that most of the information came from records and books available at any public library. And a former American commercial attaché in Berlin has written a book containing virtually the same information.

More Chocolate and Bananas
More chocolate, more bananas and more tapioca are coming into the United States because of the same improvement in shipping which led to the elimination of coffee from the ration list. The public can expect more chocolate bars, breakfast cocoa, chocolate milk shakes, etc., more bananas, too. But increase in tapioca is vitally needed, practically irreplaceable, for sticuum. Abundant tapioca for pudding will not be available for some time.

Factographs
A twelve-month growth of barnacles on a ship of 10,000 dead-weight tons may be as much as thirty tons.

All seagoing ships of the United Nations are equipped with a visual signaling device for communication between vessels of a convoy and their armed escort.

enough. They just had the whole thing reprinted. Cost in tax money—$516,209. But what's that in these times? Cost in scarce materials—a half-ton dent in that dwindling paper supply. But the newspapers could make up for this by declining to waste paper on futile discussions of the weird way in which Washington works, its wonders to perform.

Theaters Today

"Coastal Command" Has Many Aircraft Heroes

"Coastal Command," released by RKO Radio, and starting tomorrow at the Liberty theater, is a full-length documentary feature which surpasses the vast majority of films in sheer dramatic quality. This inspiring and magnificently photographed record of the routine work of coastal command, a division of the RAF, is full of breath-taking excitement. The leading role is "played" by a Sunderland flying boat, "T for Tommie," a creature of incredible grace and beauty but instinct with menacing power. The main supporting roles are "taken" by a Catalina flying boat, "A for Apple," Beauforts, Hudsons and Beaufighters. Men and women of the coastal command, including the commander-in-chief, Sir Philip Joubert, complete a cast as brilliant as any ever assembled by Hollywood.

In watching the intricate workings of the coastal command, whose main duty is to protect the convoys, the individual contemplates with awe the amazing courage, modesty and good humor of the men of the RAF.

"Ghosts on the Loose" Has East Side Kids

The sinister Bela Lugosi can be depended upon to deliver an interesting, fully rounded performance. So, also, though in a different category, can the East Side Kids, headed by those irrepressible young gangsters, Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall and Bobby Jordan. When all are brought together as co-stars, the result is bound to be a picture which combines many entertaining attributes.

Opening today at the Maryland theater, this is the initial showing of the Monogram comedy drama "Ghosts on the Loose." All entered vigorously into the spirit of the story, and made the most of every scene.

In the story Lugosi heads a band of enemy agents, and the Kids move heaven and earth—not to speak of the furniture—in an effort to combat their diabolical activities. The climax finds the youngsters co-operating vigorously with the forces of law and order.

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" Now at Garden Theater

Now playing at the Garden theater is "Yankee Doodle Dandy," based on the story of the life of George M. Cohan. The picture is filled with Cohan's songs, many of which have never lost their popularity. Academy Award winner James Cagney heads the cast and is ably supported by Joan Leslie and Walter Huston. Richard Whorf, Irene Manning, George Tobias, Rosemary DeCamp, Jeanne Cagney and Frances Langford all have supporting roles.

The co-feature at the Garden today is "Hay-foot," a sequel to "Tanks a Million." An excellent comedy, it stars William Tracy, Joe Sawyer, James Gleason and Elyse Knox.

Carrier Pigeons Go AWOL

OPELOUSAS, La. (AP)—U. S. army carrier pigeons go AWOL and Postmaster Leon Haas, Sr., insists "the mail must get through."

Those two closely associated truths have led local residents to wonder if the postmaster shouldn't receive a commission as a liaison man in the signal corps.

Recently Haas "parcel-posted" one of the strayed message bearers—far off the beam—back to its base at Camp Claiborne. It had been brought to him by an R.F.D. resident near whose home it ended a homing flight.

18 Coal Miners Killed in Blast

26 Others Injured In Alabama Tragedy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 29.—Eighteen coal miners, including at least three members of volunteer rescue crews, were killed and twenty-six others injured last night and early today when two gas explosions blasted the Republic Steel Corporation's Sayreton No. 2 slope here.

The dead included E. J. McCrossin, chief state mine inspector, and George Ferguson, Sayreton superintendent, who headed rescue groups into the mine in desperate and partly successful efforts to save the men trapped approximately two miles from the opening.

A Republic spokesman said he believed all the men were now out of the mine. He estimated that more than 100 of the regular night shift of 135 men made their way to safety unhurt before the second blast, at 1 a. m. (CWT). The first blast occurred about 10:30 p. m. (CWT).

Sayreton, third largest coal producer in Alabama, employs approximately 1,100 on all shifts, but the No. 1 opening was not affected.

All of the twenty-six injured men were burned, and several were in critical condition in Birmingham hospitals.

The dead, in addition to McCrossin and Ferguson, were: William Goodwin, rescue crew member; J. V. Shairt, S. C. Oldacre, W. E. Paucett, William Pennington, John W. Guthrie, Bud Jones, Jim McCombe, Henry Hann, George Hann, George Sellers, Tom McAlpin, W. H. Abel, Herbert Gilley, Amos McGrunder, Joe Davenport and Will Giles.

Frank Logsdon, one of the injured, described the first blast as a "long sheet of flame."

"I was stunned and burned," he said. "I began to stumble in the dark toward the mouth of the slope. My light was out and I stepped on several bodies. When the rescue crew reached me, I was all in."

Oakland K. of P. Lodge Plans Picnic Sept. 6

OAKLAND, Aug. 29.—A committee of the Knights of Pythias Lodge of Oakland have made tentative plans for a mild observance of Labor day, with a basket picnic, for members of the organization and the general public. The affair will be held at the city playground, formerly the Helbig Grove, at the north edge of Oakland.

This picnic is being planned so that the annual holiday would not pass unheeded, regardless of the travel restrictions. Usually there were plans made weeks in advance for the event by various Pythian committees to make the annual Labor day picnic one of the highlights of the year. This year will mark the twenty-fourth annual event.

There will be no parade and no carnival of rides and shows but there will be an arranged program, starting at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, according to Wade Mason, chairman of the committee.

The committee also is planning a number of athletic events for the young people, with Bruce Jenkins in charge, assisted by Merle Frantz, for which prizes will be awarded. The playground equipment will be available. There are also plans for a bingo stand and a refreshment stand. There will be a band concert and a brief address.

Members of the committee besides Mr. Mason include Elza Bray, Merle D. Frantz, Harry L. Stemple, W. Russell Pancake, R. B. Purbaugh and Milburn W. Mann.

Mann said the lodge was having a number of picnic tables constructed for permanent use at the playground, and these would be available by Labor day. He said also that a detailed program for the day would be planned which would be announced later.

Members of the committee besides Mr. Mason include Elza Bray, Merle D. Frantz, Harry L. Stemple, W. Russell Pancake, R. B. Purbaugh and Milburn W. Mann.

Yankees Sweep Doubleheader From Red Sox

Bombers Win 6-4 in Ten Innings and 5-1; Keller Hits Two Homers

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Boston Red Sox today, winning the opener, 6 to 4 in ten innings, on homers by Charley Keller and Roy Weatherly and the nightcap, 5 to 1, as Spud Chandler twirled a five-hitter for his seventeenth victory against three defeats.

A crowd of 38,330 saw the first place Bronx Bombers chase their Tex Hughson jinx in the opener. Hughson, who previously had beaten the Yanks eight straight times, was socked for a homer by Keller with one on in the ninth that tied the score at 4-4. In the tenth he tossed another home run ball to Weatherly with one on that abruptly ended the game.

Keller's roundtripper, his second of the game, was his twenty-fourth of the season and paved the way for Johnny Murphy's tenth win of the year. Murphy replaced Ernie Bonham in the ninth after the Sox had scored two runs, one on Al Simmons's first homer of the season, and had men on second and third with only one out. Murphy purposefully walked Tony Lupien to load the sacks, then pitched a double-play ball to Bobby Doerr.

The Yanks made short work of Joe Dobson in the second game, scoring four runs in the first inning and sending him to the showers in the second when Weatherly socked his second homer of the day. Emmott O'Neill, who replaced him, hurled one hit ball the rest of the game, but Chandler muffled the Sox all the way. The Sox scored their one run in the first when Chandler dropped a throw from Nick Etten. The scores:

Cleveland Trims White Sox Twice

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, with Mel Harder pitching five-hit ball and Alie Reynolds following with a seven-hitter, defeated the Chicago Sox twice, 2 to 1 and 6 to 1, before 18,444 today and shoved the Chicagoans down into fifth place. The Tribe now has won fourteen of nineteen games from the Sox this year.

Roy Cullenbine helped Harder to his season's sixth and lifetime's one hundred and ninety-fifth victory in the opener when he singled in the sixth and doubled in the eighth, scoring the tying run on singles by Jeff Heath and Mickey Rocco and the winning run on Heath's safe bunt and Buddy Rosar's fly. It was the sixth defeat against eleven victories for Orval Grove who allowed seven hits.

Heath with his season's eighteenth homer and a single, and Russ Peters, with four singles led the fourteen-hit attack in the nightcap that handed Johnny Humphries his ninth beating against ten hits. The scores:

Brewers Down Rainsburg in Ten-Inning Contest; Centerville Wins by Forfeit

Rainsburg tied the score at seven-all in the bottom of the ninth when it tallied three runs. Northcraft, who had gone into right field late in the game, averted a Brewer defeat in the ninth when he threw out B. Morgart at the plate with a perfect peg after fielding Clingerman's hit.

Queen City caught the offerings of R. Miller for eighteen hits, including a triple and double by Herboldshemer, a double and two singles by Wagner and three singles by Lou Bell. Clingerman, S. Diehl and Reninger each had two blows for Rainsburg.

Collins started on the mound for the Brewers but gave way to Mike Walters in the seventh. Walters was replaced by Bill Stevenson, who received credit for the victory, in the ninth. The box:

The Brewmen will attempt to nail the last half pennant next Sunday when they tangle with Centerville on the North End Playground field here. Westvaco and Rainsburg will bring down the curtain by meeting at Centerville, where Rainsburg plays its home contests. If the Reds defeat Queen City, a playoff battle for the title will be necessary.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Victory Garden Salads Greens During the Winter

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

One of the interesting ways to grow your own salad greens during the winter is to force the roots of chicory, also known as French endive. This forcing produces tender, bleached shoots which are delicious
when served with French dressing.
To prepare for such winter salads one must plan to dig up chicor-ey roots from the Victory garden late in the fall but before the ground freezes. Then, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, cut off the tops to an inch above the root crown. Bury the roots in moist sand either in a cold frame or in a root cellar. Diseased roots should not be stored. Care should be exercised when digging not to cut or bruise the roots.

To produce salad heads of Wit-loof chicory, shorten the parsnip-like roots from below to five to eight inches long. Bury them upright in damp sand or soil and cover the tops with about as much more as illustrated. Keep the temperature at about 60 degrees. In two or three weeks blanched heads five or six inches long may be cut for use.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

REGULATING THE DEAL

QUESTIONS regarding various questions connected with the deal are covered very clearly in the new Laws of Contract Bridge.
Among the important ones are these:

1. The pack originally belonging to a side may be reclaimed, but a deal may not be stopped to effect restoration, irrespective of when it was claimed.

2. In the event of a new deal
(a) The same dealer redeals, unless his attempt was out of rotation, in which case the deal reverts to the player whose turn it was to deal, and (b) the same pack is used, unless it was incorrect, or was reclaimed as provided in the previous section, and
(c) there is a new shuffle by the dealer, and a new cut by the player on his right.

3. There may not be a new deal during the deal except as provided in the next two sections, and a deal which stands, stands as a correct deal made in rotation.

4. If a player is dealing out of rotation or with an uncut pack, any player may, before the last card is dealt, require a new deal.

5. There must be a new deal if it is ascertained, before the last card is dealt: (a) That the cards have not been dealt as provided by the laws, (b) that a card is faced in the pack or elsewhere, or

(c) that a player has seen and can correctly name two or more cards dealt or to be dealt to an other player.

6. As to the proprieties of the deal, the dealer should refrain from (a) looking at the bottom card before completing the deal,
(b) tilting a card upwards or otherwise allowing one to be seen (this may impose an unpleasant duty on another player.) The other players should refrain from touching or looking at their cards until the deal is completed. Such action may be embarrassing if it results in facing a card.

After West leads the club 8 to the J, what two plays are vital to gaining maximum results for South at 4-Hearts on this deal?

War Man Power Group Will Hold Special Meeting

Area Committee Will Discuss Reconversion of Kelly-Springfield Plant

A special meeting of the Cumberland Area Man Power Committee has been called for today at 4:30 p. m. in the United States Employment Service office, Public Safety Building.

The meeting is being called for the purpose of discussing the man power situation as regards the reconversion of the Kelly-Springfield plant to the manufacture of tires in the near future.

The change over from the production of small arms ammunition which started in November 1942 to the manufacture of tires is expected to be somewhat gradual.

Just how many persons the change will affect is unknown as a number of those already employed at the Allegany Ordnance plant are skilled tire builders and are expected to be in line for jobs when the reconversion is effected.

The United States Employment Service will play a dual role in the change over in that it must certify workers for jobs in the tire manufacturing plant and prepare to accept unemployment compensation claims from those made idle as a result of the shutdown of the ordnance plant.

Daniel R. Staley is chairman of the Cumberland Area War Man Power Committee, which comprises four representatives each of the management and labor.

Lincoln Address Is Paraphrased By W. A. Gunter

600 Attend Honor Roll Dedication Exercises in LaVale

Paraphrasing Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by translating it so as to conform with present day conditions, William A. Gunter, local attorney and president of the Allegany County Letter League, yesterday paid a fitting tribute to the men and women serving in the armed forces at impressive ceremonies marking the dedication of an honor roll containing 282 names in front of the hall of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company.

Cards Are Distributed

Small cards upon which were printed "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, 1863, on the dedication of a soldier's cemetery" and "LaVale Address, 1943, on the dedication of a soldier's honor roll," were distributed among approximately 600 persons who gathered for the exercises before Gunter spoke. Those receiving the cards were asked by the speaker to mail them to the "boys in the service."

Prior to the flag-raising and honor roll unveiling, members of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company and auxiliary in uniform, lined up in a "V" formation and members of several Maryland Minute Men companies stood at attention while the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Two LaVale servicemen, Earl Raupach, of the marines, and Charles Hull, of the navy, raised the flag and as it reached the top of the pole, Miss Rita Boch, of LaVale, who is now in the WAVES, and Corp. Valeria Hovey, of the local WAC recruiting office, unveiled the honor roll.

Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Ward T. Kemp, pastor of the Park Methodist church, after which Millard Hughes, master of ceremonies, introduced Mayor Thomas F. Conlon, of Cumberland, who paid tribute to those in the armed services, praised the fire company for its activities in the community, and mentioned the lone casualty, Leonard Happe, whose name appears on the board.

A recitation entitled "A Mother's Prayer," was given by Hughes, after which Gunter delivered the principal address.

Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Irenaeus Reim, O.P.M. Cap. pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic church, Cumberland, and the closing selection was played by the band.

At the conclusion of the dedication ceremonies the Moose band entertained with a concert on the lawn in front of the fire station.

19 Firemen in Service

Hughes stated last evening that approximately twelve additional names were received for the honor roll at the close of the exercises. He added that nineteen members of the company are listed among the 282 names appearing on the honor roll board.

The hall and speakers' stand were attractively decorated by John J. Kuffner and Nelson W. Russler furnished his public speaking equipment for the occasion.

NEW SLAUGHTERING RULES EXPLAINED BY FDA SUPERVISOR

Farmers who slaughter meat for sale will continue to operate under the permit system even though the new meat order, FDO 75 provides for the licensing of other livestock slaughterers. William L. Frazee, FDA Area Supervisor stated Saturday, Any farmer who on August 14, held a permit as a farm slaughterer under Food Distribution Order 27, shall continue to hold such a permit without reapplication.

"The new slaughter licensing order No. 75 which went into effect August 15 does not greatly change the status of farm slaughterers as originally defined in previous orders," Frazee said. "However, a farmer who does not have a 1941 quota base is now limited to delivering 400 pounds of dressed meat, whereas under FDO 27, he was allowed to take his choice between killing for sale three animals, of which only one could be cattle, or three hundred pounds of dressed meat."

Provision is also made in the new slaughter licensing order for any farmer, without a license or permit, to slaughter livestock owned by him for home consumption or for consumption by his employees.

Under FDO 75, a farm slaughterer is a Class 3 slaughterer, the only one which will not be licensed. A farm slaughterer is any farmer who slaughters for delivery not over 10,000 pounds per year live weight. Persons who did not hold a slaughter permit on August 14 and who wish to become farm slaughterers should apply for such a permit to the county war board, or the FDA area supervisor. Farm slaughterers desiring a change in status should also petition one of these sources.

Printers' Union Presents 40-year Button to Taylor

Resolution of Respect to the Late Joseph B. Finan Is Adopted

A forty-year button was presented to Charles A. Taylor, employee of the Times and Alleganyan Company, yesterday at a regular meeting of Cumberland Typographical Union No. 244, in Junior Order hall, Polk street.

The presentation was made by W. Russell Shaner, president of the union, in recognition of Taylor having been a member in good standing continuously for forty years.

Taylor is the fifth member of the organization to receive a forty-year button. In recent years J. V. Lockett, J. William Wickard, J. W. Long and the late Benjamin F. Walters were accorded similar honors.

Is Native of Virginia

Born in 1881 in Alexandria, Taylor left Virginia when five years of age and came to Cumberland to live with John T. Taylor, an elder brother. When he became sixteen he carried papers and later entered apprenticeship at the printing trade in the plant of the Times.

"Charley," as he is more familiarly known to his friends, went to work at 5:30 a. m., continuing until 6 to 7 p. m. His other duties included firing the furnace, keeping the office clean and washing windows. When the paper was "up" he climaxed his day's work by helping to put up the mail.

Wages at the start of apprenticeship in those days were $1.50 a week and were gradually increased to $12.50 a week, which was the weekly compensation Taylor received at the time of his marriage.

Joined Union in 1903

Taylor joined Cumberland Typographical Union in 1903 when Edward Ehrbar was president and meetings were held in the Morehead building. He served as secretary-treasurer of the union for one term, about 1916, and received $1.50 a month for his work.

All of Taylor's time spent at the trade, including apprenticeship, has been served at the Times plant. Periodically he has been foreman and assistant foreman of the composing room, which latter position he now occupies.

In his early years he was employed by an uncle, T. B. Taylor, who at that time was owner of the newspaper which later became known as the Times.

So far, Local 1874 has sent 2470 packs of cigarettes to fighting men overseas. It has been the policy to divide the shipments between men in the Atlantic and Pacific areas, Meagher said.
